Peru Releases U.S. Tuna Boat

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government has released an American tuna boat captured in the Pacific Friday, but Washington sources said the incident could precipitate a cutoff of U.S. aid to Peru.

The American vessel, Mariner was captured by a Peruvian navy gunboat which attacked a small fishing fleet more than 23 miles off the Peruvian coast. The skipper of another vessel reported his boat was peppered with machine gun fire before the gunboat was driven off.

No injuries were reported in the attack, which U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers called "wholly unjustified."

Peru's ambassador to the United States, Fernando Berckemeyer, said the American boats were operating in Peruvian waters without licenses. Peru claims territorial jurisdiction 200 miles out to sea, but the United States considers any boat in international waters if it is more than 12 miles off the coast.

The Peruvian Naval Ministry said Friday the Mariner was released at the port of Talara after the skipper, Joseph Lewis of San Diego, Calif., paid an unspecified fine.

Mar's Rocket Has 'Wrinkle'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A team of experts, flown here from California, today assessed whether a "wrinkle" can be ironed out in an Atlas-Centaur rocket slated to launch a probe toward Mars on Feb. 24.

The wrinkle, or slight buckling of the thin skin, occurred on the first stage Atlas when it accidentally lost pressure during a launch pad test Friday. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the 75-foot-tall Atlas was creased horizontally about halfway around its circumference at about its mid-section. It is 10 feet in diameter. Officials said it was too early to determine the effect on the launch schedule.

General Dynamics Convair division, builder of the Atlas-Centaur, dispatched a team of engineers from its San Diego, Calif., plant to determine the extent of damage and whether the skin could be straightened by stretching it up and outward on the launch pad.

The Atlas is basically a stainless steel balloon, its skin only about three-hundredths of an inch thick. It relies on gas pressure for rigidity, and without pressure would collapse under its own weight.

Time Ripe For Tax Reform: Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says the time is ripe for tax reform and he wants the Treasury Department to "think in completely new terms" about it.

Describing the current tax system as something that has "grown like Topsy out of necessity," Nixon said Friday that "congress is now receptive to change."

Nixon commented during a goodwill visit to the Treasury, part of the round of visits he has made to all but one of his Cabinet departments. He also went to Health, Education and Welfare Friday and said he will go to Interior next week.

Nixon said the reassessment he is recommending for tax reform also should be applied to international matters.

"Now is the time to examine the international monetary system where its strengths are, where its weaknesses are," he said.

At HEW, Nixon told employees he was once a minor government lawyer and considered it a "pretty low form of life."

He added, however, that in looking back he realizes the job he did as a P-3 government lawyer working on tire regulations in 1942 was important.

"Our job at the top can only be done if we let people up and down the line know we know what they're doing and appreciate what they're doing," he said.

Earlier in the day, Nixon signed an executive order creating an Office of Intergovernmental Relations to be run by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

He indicated its main task would be coordinating relations with state and local governments, but neither he nor Agnew gave any specifics.

Nixon also established a new White House post to keep former presidents informed of important developments.

Retired Brig. Gen. Robert L. Schulz, an aide to former President Eisenhower, was named to the job that eventually will pay $30,000 a year. Schulz, who remains an aide to Eisenhower, is drawing pay for that job, plus a pension and won't be compensated in the White House position.

Hampton aroused the interest of political observers because of his reported interest in being nominated for the office of lieutenant governor in 1970.

Hampton, who received the delegates in his suite, said only that he would remain in politics. He declined to state what office he would seek in 1970. Gov. William Milliken is expected to be the party's nominee for governor.

Kennedy Film Brings Protest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 20-second movie filmed as a bullet smashed into President John F. Kennedy's head set off an angry protest Friday at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial.

"The state's sole object is to prejudice the jury," shouted defense lawyer William Wegmann when the movie was screened for the second time of the day—the sixth time since it was introduced Thursday.

Criminal Dist. Court Judge Edward A. Haggerty overruled him. But the defense shouted another protest when the prosecution stopped the film on the frame showing the President's head with a bloody halo.

The vivid movie made by Abraham Zapruder, a Dallas dress manufacturer, is one of some 50 exhibits introduced by the prosecution.

What the movie proves was a matter of dispute. The Warren Commission pored over it and reached one conclusion, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison reached another.

"You will be able to see the President fall backwards as the fatal shot strikes him from the front—not the back," Garrison told the jury in his opening statement.

FBI photographic expert Lyndal L. Shaneyfelt of Alexandria, Va., testified Friday that the study of the film confirmed that, though the President's head jerked backward, the spray of blood and tissue from the bullet's impact went "forward and up."

"On the third shot his head exploded and went back," testified Mrs. Philip Willis of Dallas, who took the stand after Shaneyfelt.

"What was the direction of the matter coming from the President's head?" asked Asst. Dist. Atty. Alvin Oser.

"Back," said Mrs. Willis. Police Splattered Then came Billy Joe Martin, the 30th state witness called since testimony began Feb. 6, to testify that he was riding his motorcycle some 10 feet behind the presidential limousine and was splattered with blood and tissue.

Martin, a Dallas motorcycle policeman, was riding escort as the motorcade moved through Dealey Plaza, in front of the Texas School Book Depository where Lee Harvey Oswald worked.

In Washington, general sessions court Judge C.W. Halleck ruled that Garrison could obtain the rifle used in the assassination—but rejected a request for some items sought in the subpoena hearing.

Garrison had asked for X-rays and photographs made at the Kennedy autopsy, contending they would corroborate other evidence in showing the President was hit by cross-fire.

The judge ruled that if the federal government gives Dr. Cyril H. Wecht, a pathologist, permission to look at the autopsy documents they need not be sent to the Shaw trial.

Sirhan Objects To Description Of Mental State

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the traumatic moment after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot, a young busboy cradled the senator's bloody head in his arms, whispered encouragement and placed a rosary in his hands.

"I said the first thing that came to my mind," Juan Romero said Friday to the jury that is trying Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for Kennedy's death. "I said, 'Come on Senator, you can make it.' Then his head dropped back."

Emile Zola Berman, one of Sirhan's three defenders, said in his opening statement that "there is no doubt . . . that he (Sirhan) did, in fact, fire the shot that killed Sen. Kennedy." But, Berman said, the defense will present psychiatric testimony that "at the actual moment of the shooting he was out of contact with reality, in a trance."

The state is trying to prove Sirhan killed Kennedy, June 5, 1968 with malice and premeditation—the elements of first degree murder. The defense hopes to show the killing was impulsive, without premeditation or malice. As Berman put it: "totally a product of a sick, obsessed mind and personality."

The pale, 24-year-old Jordanian rose from his chair in protest as Berman described him thus. He was obviously agitated, murmuring "No, no." A court inspector leaned over the chair of defense investigator Michael McCowan and said, "Talk to him, Mike."

McCowan pushed Sirhan back into his chair and whispered to him for several minutes. There were no further incidents and Sirhan smiled broadly a number of times during the day.

The first day's testimony also revealed that a last minute change in plans brought Kennedy to his deadly encounter with Sirhan—in a pantry off the Ambassador Hotel ballroom where the senator had just claimed victory in California's presidential primary.

On Standby If Students Renew Disturbances

By The Associated Press
Police broke up a protest march by 2,000 University of Wisconsin students Friday night, part of the current wave of unrest on a number of the nation's college campuses.

Wisconsin's Chancellor H. Edwin Young had earlier withdrawn the 1,900 National Guardsmen from the campus and promised they would remain on standby "unless students renew campus disturbances."

Police acted alone against the marchers who were headed for the State Capitol for the third time in 24 hours. Leaders cautioned against clashes with police but used the term provocation when marchers sat down in a street intersection. There were four arrests.

Protesters received support from Negro athletes and other groups in pressing their 13 demands including establishment of a black studies center.

At the University of Chicago, student rebels who had occupied the administration building for 15 days walked out and admitted they had been wasting their time.

"The sit-in ends in defeat," one student announced at a rally.

The university refused to negotiate with the students while they held the building, and had refrained from ousting the protesters, hoping to avoid violence.

A central demand of the sit-ins, that the university rehire Marlene Dixon, assistant professor of sociology, was eliminated Wednesday. A faculty committee appointed before the sit-in recommended a one-year contract extension, but she refused it.

Postpone Meet
At Duke University in Durham, N.C., 500 guardsmen remained at the ready two miles from the campus and President Douglas M. Knight's scheduled discussion of black students' demands this afternoon was postponed.

A spokesman said the university-wide convocation was canceled at the request of the office of the state adjutant general "in order to avoid a large gathering during a time of tension on the campus."

Police used tear gas Thursday to break up a gathering of students following the occupation of the administration building by 30 Negro students protesting alleged "racist policies."

At San Francisco State College, three hecklers and the Negro director of the school's new Black studies Department were arrested Friday after they interrupted a speech by Acting President S.I. Hayakawa.

Hecklers
Nathan Hare, the director, led the hecklers onto the stage where Hayakawa was welcoming about 350 teachers for the spring semester which begins Monday. "Get the hell out of here!" Hayakawa barked at Hare. Laughing, Hare replied, "We're not going."

"This is a perfect example of their tactics to suppress freedom of speech," Hayakawa told the audience later during a lull in the noise. He was cheered when he pledged to keep the campus open "no matter what it takes."

Elsewhere there were these developments:

Urbana, Ill.—The university of Illinois faculty disciplinary committee rejected Negro student demands that it rescind reprimands against 200 students arrested in a September sit-in.

Criminal Act
New York City—The president of City College said he agreed with the demands of a group of black and Puerto Rican students who took over the administration building for several hours Thursday but could not say yes to all of them.

Denver, Colo.—The Colorado legislature completed action on a bill making it a crime punishable by a fine up to $500 and a jail sentence of up to one year to interfere with any student seeking to attend college classes. Gov. John Love indicated he would sign the measure.

Pakistan Lifts Emergency Ban

KARACHI (AP) — Riots gave way to merrymaking today after President Mohammed Ayub Khan freed his main political foe and announced Pakistan's 41-month state of emergency will be lifted Monday.

Chanting crowds danced in the streets of Karachi and planned elaborate festivities at Larkana, 300 miles north of here, to celebrate the release from detention of former foreign minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, the symbol of opposition to Ayub's 10-year-old regime.

Thousands of wellwishers crowded outside Bhutto's house, demanding that he come out every half hour to make speeches. Bhutto told them he will not call off his planned hunger strike until "Ayub's promise to lift the state of emergency becomes reality."

Bhutto was released Friday when Ayub bowed to massive opposition pressure. The day was marked by wild riots, fires and gun battles that required army intervention in three cities. Five persons were reported killed in a general protest strike.

A stone-throwing battle between Pathan supporters of Ayub and antigovernment demonstrators broke out anew in Karachi today, but elsewhere the nation was reported calm.

The government reported two prisoners on trial for plotting to secede East Pakistan from the rest of the country were shot and injured while trying to escape in Dacca.

The alleged plot involved 35 militarymen and civilians who have been on trial since last June in what is known as the Agartala Conspiracy Case. The government claims they plotted with Indian agents.

The leader of the alleged conspiracy is Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, leader of the opposition Awami League party, whose release has been demanded by some opposition groups as a condition attending a proposed round-table conference.

Ayub's decision to terminate the emergency, imposed Sept. 6, 1965, under the Indian-Pakistan war, appeared to pave the way for a round-table conference with the eight-party opposition coalition, known as Democratic Action Committee.

in the retailing district while its present branch bank there across 12th St. on Ludington is being removed to a new permanent location on 23rd St. N. to clear the site for construction of the bank's new main banking building.

The branch bank on 23rd will be on the east side of the street at 520 23rd N. between the Sovey Shell Service Station and the Bark River Culvert & Equipment Co. building.

Don Brandt of Brandt Construction said that the temporary banking building on Ludington at 12th will be ready for usage in from four to six weeks.

The bank building, 24x52 feet, will be at the back end of the lot and there will be a boardwalk and landscaping on the 75 feet of setback from the Ludington St. sidewalk line. The drive-up bank will be at the rear of the lot with the bank building and it will be covered by a canopy projecting from the building, with a driveout into the alley and 12th St.

On the Pix Shoe Store side, the building will be three feet from the lot line because its gable roof has a three foot eave. Inside, the roof will be cathedral type, with timbered ceiling. The building will be heated electrically and air conditioned and will have facilities for full banking services, including an after-hours depository.

Brandt Construction Co. built the branch bank which will be moved after the temporary branch is ready. Greene said that plans for the main bank are being prepared by the architects and that when they are completed bids for construction will be asked.

Student Paper Ouster Asked

LANSING (AP) — Obscenities in the Michigan State University student newspaper have prompted angry blasts from legislators and a demand that the paper be dropped from the Michigan Press Association.

"The State News is bankrupt of morality and its history of service to the student body is now made impossible by the depths it sunk to in...yellow journalism," said Rep. Jim Brown, R-Okemos.

Brown, a former newspaper publisher and editor, called for the MSU administration to "clear the State News offices of every student in any way responsible or who stood silently by" when the offending story was printed.

Investigation
The story, detailing a recent campus demonstration, included what another legislator termed "four-letter words that most people would never use in private, let alone print in a newspaper."

Rep. Philip O. Pittenger, R-Lansing, said he would ask the Ingham County prosecutor to investigate the matter to determine if any legal action could prevent similar occurrences in the future.

"Now is the time for university officials to make no bones about moving in on the filth peddlers at the State News," Brown said.

"The student editors run their paper in the unreal mislead conception that they answer to no one," he said.

Hide Behind Facade
"The truth is, they have the uniquely comfortable spoon-fed position of freedom from financial worries and the resulting pressures of caring what the readers think, a status unknown in the real newspaper world off the campus."

Students "who hide behind the phony facade of press freedom can have their underground filth press," he said. "But without the support of the taxpayers and the subscription money of the thousands of decent MSU students who, I should think, have had about all they're going to take from the minority punks who call themselves editors of the Michigan State News."

Brown said management of the student paper should go on a temporary basis to "someone who can get the State News back on a responsible course." He offered to work with "the wholesome elements" on the State News staff and other MSU alumni to produce a "student-oriented, factual, professional newspaper."

Panax For Ouster
Meanwhile, Panax Corp., which owns 14 Michigan newspapers, asked the Michigan Press Association (MPA) to oust the State News as a member.

The offending story "heralds the low point in MPA journalism and is void of accuracy, objectivity and common decency," said Panax President John McGoff in a letter to Frank Angelo, MPA president and managing editor of the Detroit Free Press.

McGoff said the story results in "a black mark shared by each member of the MPA."

The furor is the second over obscenity in the State News in recent months.

State News General Manager Louis Berman threatened earlier to dock the pay of three top student editors involved in the last incident. That decision was appealed to the student-faculty judiciary committee, which recommended no fines be imposed.

Mead Centralizes

DAYTON, Ohio — Mead Papers has named John W. Herbert vice president and general manager of its business and commercial papers and converting paper operations.

The move centralizes responsibility for marketing and manufacturing and represents a further step in Mead Corp.'s plans to integrate these activities in the Mead Papers Division, the nation's second largest producer of fine papers. The division includes three distinct profit centers — business and commercial papers, converting papers, and publishing papers. Mead's publishing papers group took a similar step last July, naming Robert P. Arvid vice president and general manager of publishing papers.

"We're planning substantial growth for each component of Mead Papers," said Hoyt H. Wheeland, president of the Mead Papers Division. "By tying the marketing and manufacturing functions more closely together we can plan our growth more effectively and improve our ability to provide the day-to-day service our customers need," he said.

Radio Carries His Proposal

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Michael McCannon, 21, and his girl friend, Patty Jackson, 20, hiked to their "special spot" on a little mountain near Salt Lake.

The two students, listening to Valentine's Day music on the radio, sat under "their tree," the tree where the Salt Lake couple carved their initials in June of 1966.

The music stopped, and Patty heard from the radio Michael's voice: "This will be the first and last time I ask you this, I love you very much, Patty, will you marry me?"

McCannon had arranged with Robb Branch of Salt Lake radio station Kall to tape the proposal and play it at 9:30 p.m. Friday. Patty said, "yes."

Mead makes fine papers used in printing, publishing, office supplies, stationery, greeting cards, business forms, banking papers and many other applications. Ban Parttime Prosecutors

LANSING (AP) — A lawyer-legislator who thinks the people could get "much better service" from county prosecutors said Friday he will introduce legislation including provisions that bar some prosecutors from private practice.

Rep. Dennis Cawthorne, R-Manistee, said he will propose a measure empowering Michigan's lesser-populated counties to join together to elect one full-time prosecuting attorney.

"The present system of having parttime prosecutors is outdated, costly and unfair to those who need the prosecutor's services," Cawthorne said.

Many outstate prosecutors are caught in a conflict between their official duties and their private practice, he said, because of salaries for the county job.

"Because of the low salary paid in many counties, prosecutors understandably are tempted to put their private practice before their official duties," he said, adding that he had received letters of complaint from people who had been put off by prosecutors involved in private practice.

Under his proposal, the prosecutor serving more than one county would be barred from private practice and would assume fulltime duties with a salary of "about $20,000," Cawthorne said.

Pueblo Court To View Sister Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Members of the Navy court of inquiry probing the capture of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo get a close look at a spy vessel today.

Five admirals on the court of inquiry flew to Norfolk from California Friday to look over the USS Palm Beach, the Pueblo's "sister" ship, similar to the vessel captured by North Korea over a year ago.

Capt. Vincent Thomas, the court's public affairs counsel, said none of the inquiry admirals has ever been aboard one of the intelligence ships.

The admirals tour the Palm Beach for several hours, then return to California for continuation of the hearings into the capture of the Pueblo. Newsmen were not allowed to talk to the visiting admirals or to accompany them on their tour of the Palm Beach.

Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, the commanding officer of the Pueblo, did not come to Norfolk, though he was represented on the tour of the Palm Beach by his military and civilian counsel, Capt. James R. Keys and E. Miles Harvey.

Bucher remained in California "to do ship's work and spend time with his family," a Navy spokesman said.

The spokesman said the Palm Beach is similar to the captured Pueblo, though not identical, and Bucher is thoroughly familiar with the ship. Both were converted to intelligence ships in Bremerton, Wash., at the same time.

Harvey said Bucher is convinced the admirals will take into consideration the differences between the two craft.

High on the tour agenda was a study of the Palm Beach's research spaces, Thomas said.

Cmdr. David Cooney, Atlantic Fleet public affairs officer, said additional destruction devices have been placed aboard the Palm Beach since the Pueblo's capture. He said the new equipment is designed to destroy more classified material in less time.

Commenting on Bucher's attitude, Harvey said the Pueblo's skipper does not consider his naval career at an end, but is maintaining a "wait and see attitude."

Harvey also quoted Bucher as saying a congressional probe of the capture of his ship would be "premature" before the end of the official inquiry by the Navy.

Drive Underway For Children's Treatment Unit

A total of $12,000 is being sought in Delta County as part of a three county effort to renovate Brookridge Home — a group home for emotionally disturbed children.

Brookridge, the former Marquette County Citizens Home, will be the center of tri-county mental health program for children through the age of adolescence.

The Marquette-Alger-Delta Community Mental Health (Act 54) Board will administer the program. Brookridge will provide accommodations for 15 children in need of residential treatment, both short term and long term.

Operation of the home is expected to begin in April.

The Michigan Dept. of Mental Health will bear costs of room and board for children living in the home at a proposed annual budget of about $80,000. Clinical services will be provided by the Mental Health Center Compact, which serves Marquette, Alger and Delta counties.

Dr. Jane E. Chapman, clinical psychologist, is treatment coordinator for the Brookridge program.

An action committee representing Zone III Health Planning Council, other organizations and interested community leaders are in charge of the fund-raising portion of the program. Edward J. Cox of Escanaba is a member of the planning council.

Goal of the committee is to raise about $40,000 to renovate the building. On a population basis, Marquette County will raise $24,000, Delta County $12,000 and Alger County $6,000.

A new boiler, new wiring and other changes needed to insure safety of the youngsters is required.

Dr. Chapman said donations of any size will be welcomed. Contributions may be mailed to Brookridge, Box 612, Escanaba.

The Delta County Board of Supervisors already has pledged its financial support to the program.

He is an official with the United Auto Workers in Detroit.

Food Inspection Gets New Name

Consumer protection programs of the Michigan Department of Agriculture will be easier with a name change in the department. The Regulatory Bureau has become the Bureau of Consumer Protection. Among its responsibilities is safeguarding consumers' meat, dairy and other food supplies.

B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, said the name change reflects the need to more accurately identify services performed.

Gov. William G. Milliken approved the name change to Bureau of Consumer Protection upon the recommendation of the director and the Michigan Commission of Agriculture.

Divisions within the new Bureau of Consumer Protection remain the same as in the former Regulatory Bureau: Animal Health, Dairy, Food Inspection, Laboratory, and Plant Industry. The bureau is involved in administering more than 200 laws and regulations, primarily for the protection of consumers.

Schools To Join Clothing Drive

During the week of Feb. 24, Escanaba Area Schools will take part in a clothing drive through the auspices of Fair Chance, Inc., formerly the World Clothing Fund.

A similar drive last year resulted in 180 bags of used clothing being collected.

The sponsoring organization is national in scope and aims to collect two million pounds of good usable clothing this year. Most of the clothing goes to depressed communities in Appalachia, although some of it is used in needy areas in western states.

Accepted in this drive is any clean and wearable infants' children's and adults' clothing and shoes. Warmth and durability are more important than style.

All contributions of clothing should be taken by the pupil to his school where the collections will be packed into bags and shipped at no cost to the school district to the national collecting point.

"We in the schools feel that this project can be made into an important teaching tool," said Supt. Luther M. Barrett. "We can impress upon the pupils that there are many people much worse off than we are who need our help, however small it may be.

"This is citizenship training. Also, this project can be useful in teaching the customs, geography, and history of the areas involved. It might be added that another benefit locally is the opportunity to clean out collections of old clothing about the house and put it to good use."

For local community benefit, school personnel sort through the clothing collected and select articles which can be of benefit to our own needy children.

U.P. Pipe Lines Protest Policies On Taxation

By JEAN WORTH

The pipe line companies operating in the Upper Peninsula aren't any happier than the individual homeowner about property taxes. They spoke out at the annual conference of Upper Peninsula tax assessors in Escanaba this week.

The petroleum and natural gas pipelines that cross the Upper Peninsula from Ironwood to St. Ignace (where they cross the Straits of Mackinac into Lower Michigan) represent an investment, with their compressor stations, estimated at about $82 million.

At half this figure, under assessing practice, they'd still be worth $46 million, less depreciation, and constitute a major contribution to the tax base of the 7 U. P. counties—Gogebic, Iron, Dickinson, Menominee, Delta, Senoelcraft and Mackinac—through which they pass.

Two Pipe Lines

The pipe lines are those of Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co. and Lakehead Pipeline Co., Inc., the first built last year and still not operative, for the transmission of natural gas, and the second built in 1953 for the transmission of crude petroleum from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada to Sarnia, Ontario, Canada. There is a distillery at Rapid River on this line, manufacturing heavy heating oils for Gustafson Oil Co.

Great Lakes is owned by Trans Canada Pipe Line Co., a Canadian firm, and by American National Gas System, a United States firm whose subsidiaries include Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., which serves the lower U. P. with natural gas, and Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co. This line will bring natural gas to the area of the eastern Upper Peninsula beyond Rapid River for the first time this year.

Canadian Line

Lakehead Pipe Line Co. is a subsidiary of Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. of Canada, who operated the largest crude oil line in the free world, a 1,929 mile facility stretching from Redwater, Alberta north of Edmonton, to Port Credit, Ontario, just west of Toronto.

Both pipeline firms sent representatives to the U. P. assessors conference to tell of their unhappiness with state and local tax assessing practices and depreciation schedules.

Because Great Lakes isn't operative yet and because it has been the practice of the State Tax Commission for many years to grant some tax forgiveness on new construction until it is operative, the assessment of the new gas line is a matter for adjustment. The intention of assessors in the U. P. counties as expressed at the conference appeared to be to assess the line fully this year. What was sought was a practice that would be uniform across the U. P.

Higher Taxes Felt

John W. Barnes, Detroit, assistant secretary of Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Co., speaking for Great Lakes, a sister firm, said that all public service corporations, including natural gas pipe lines, have felt acutely the impact of higher federal, state and especially local taxes. In Wisconsin the utilities' share of the property tax base increased $635 million in the 10 years before 1966.

In Michigan, local assessments of pipe line and utility property have increased 124 per cent in the last 10 years, "an increase which approaches that of even the automobile industry.

"Pipe lines, like utilities," said Barnes, "are regulated in the public interest while other taxing businesses are not. The difficulty of distinguishing between the value of a piece of land owned by business and the value of an entire business located on the premises has proved a serious problem, but it becomes critical with respect to pipe lines integrated over wide areas.

Ignore Earning Power?

"Many pipe lines have no value above their salvage, except as parts of the enterprise for which they're being utilized. Allowing a pipe line a ginal or reproduction cost without regard for earnings limitations on utilities. The cost approach fails to take into consideration economic factors which determine value and fails to recognize excessive costs due to unexpected circumstances such as bad weather, labor problems, and increased materials costs due to terrain.

Extra Costs

"Example is the Straits of Mackinac crossing by both Lakehead and Great Lakes. This section cost several times the average unit line cost but does not contribute more to the system than any other section of the line. There is no excuse for any variation in assessment from township to township, county to county, but all 18 states in which our pipe lines are located apply a uniform assessment along the entire route, except Michigan.

"The capitalization of income approach, used in most states, is based on the theory that the value of a property is the present worth of the net return it may be expected to produce during its useful life; that a property is valuable in proportion what it will earn.

Report Personal Property

"All property owners are required to file periodically detailed listings of their property with the tax assessors. We annually file more than 225 returns describing our pipe lines and other facilities located in 412 taxing jurisdictions in 18 states with 2,123 tax levies for thousands of local purposes.

"The full time of four people and as many stenographers is required for 6 months to prepare these returns. Local taxpayers, on the other hand only rarely file tax returns with local or state assessors listing either personal property or describing additions to real property. Thus all of public utilities' property is listed on the tax rolls and assessed and equalization by county and state boards necessarily results in the utilities carrying a highly disproportionate share of the personal property tax load.

Disparity Protested

"The widening assessment disparity between utilities and locally determined assessment ratios, together with constantly growing demands (for taxes) . . . results in increasing dependence by many local units upon utility payments. That such dependence may be owing, at least in part, to inequitable assessment practices doesn't appear to mitigate that dependence.

Captain Talks Youth Out Of Hijacking Plane

MIAMI (AP) — An airline captain testified Friday that he talked a long-haired youth out of hijacking a jetliner by praying and telling the cockpit intruder to "ask the Lord to help you."

Capt. Harry Davis said Michael A. Peparo, 21, of Cold Spring, N.Y., bowed his head and wept when Davis began praying.

Peparo and his girl friend, Tasmine Fitzgerald of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., are charged with air piracy in the attempted hijacking of a National Air Lines plane on Feb. 3.

Peparo and Miss Fitzgerald, formerly a student at the Boston Conservatory of Music, held hands during the federal court preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Edward Swan.

The commissioner bound both over for federal grand jury action. Swan ordered Peparo held without bond, but he suggested that Miss Fitzgerald's attorney ask a federal judge to release her on bond to the custody of her mother.

Davis testified the hippy attired Peparo said he wanted to get out of the United States because he expected to be drafted in six months. Peparo said "he was against war and against killing," Davis testified.

Abortion Fails

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Conrad A. Nicks, 36, Kalamazoo, has been bound over to circuit court on a charge of manslaughter resulting from an attempted abortion.

Mrs. Susanne Brewer, 26, Kalamazoo, was dead on arrival at a hospital Feb. 7 after the abortion attempt, authorities said.

Nicks, a Kalamazoo fireman, was in custody in lieu of $18,000 bail.

Girls Scare Off Intruder

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Police say a man wearing only tennis shoes walked into the bedroom Friday of three girls who live in a Northside apartment. When one girl bit him on the arm and another threw a stuffed teddy bear at him, the nude fled out the apartment's front door. The police said.

dence. It is advantageous to have high tax rates in order to obtain as much utility tax revenue as possible, and low assessments on general property to obtain as little tax revenue from local taxpayers as possible.

"A Wisconsin plan imposes a state tax on pipe line and utility property in lieu of all local taxes on these companies. Revenues are partially retained by the state with the balance distributed to counties, municipalities and schools. Michigan has a similar plan for railroads and telephones, but a less satisfactory method of computing the average state rate is used."

Lakehead's Plea

Hiram Gustafson of Lakehead said that cost of constructing pipe lines had actually gone down with improved technology; that where construction progressed at a rate of about 4,000 feet a day in 1953 it was up to 8,000 feet and to as much as 23,700 feet a day in 1968.

He was critical of Michigan's present depreciation schedule on pipe lines and said allowance should be made for extra costs in rocky terrain like that in Gogebic County, where original construction costs are higher with no increase in capacity, and where line breakage is more apt to result during operation.

"With interstate pipe lines," said Gustafson "the line should be assessed for taxes by the state and the money should be distributed by the state to local governments."

Lebanese Ask U.N. Protection

By The Associated Press

A United Nations force stationed on the border with Israel is the best way to protect Lebanon from Zionist, two right-wing members of Beirut's Parliament said today.

"Lebanon is a weak country and no one can protect it except the United Nations, which was actually formed for states like Lebanon," said deputy Nasri Maalouf in a panel discussion. Other participants included former Prime Minister Saeb Salam and Raymond Edde, a deputy who was minister of public works when Israel raided Beirut airport last December.

Edde said a U.N. force should be stationed on the border, but only after all Lebanese had agreed to such a step. "Egypt has done it and there is nothing to be ashamed about," Edde added.

Salam, one of the leaders of Lebanon's Moslem community, objected. He said only a strong Lebanese army backed by complete national unity could protect the country.

Israel said today rockets were fired from Jordan at a kibbutz in the Jordan river valley Friday and one woman was slightly injured.

In Cairo, the semi-official government newspaper Al-Ahram said Egypt has informed Britain it would consider a reported British offer to supply Israel with arms "a hostile action against Arab countries."

Lemay Sues Ex-Employer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. Lemay has sued an electronics company for $5.3 million, saying he was fired from his $50,000-a-year job because he ran for vice president on the American Independent party ticket.

His superior court suit Friday claimed that Networks Electronics Corp., of suburban Chatsworth breached its contract making him chairman of the board until he turns 65 in 1971.

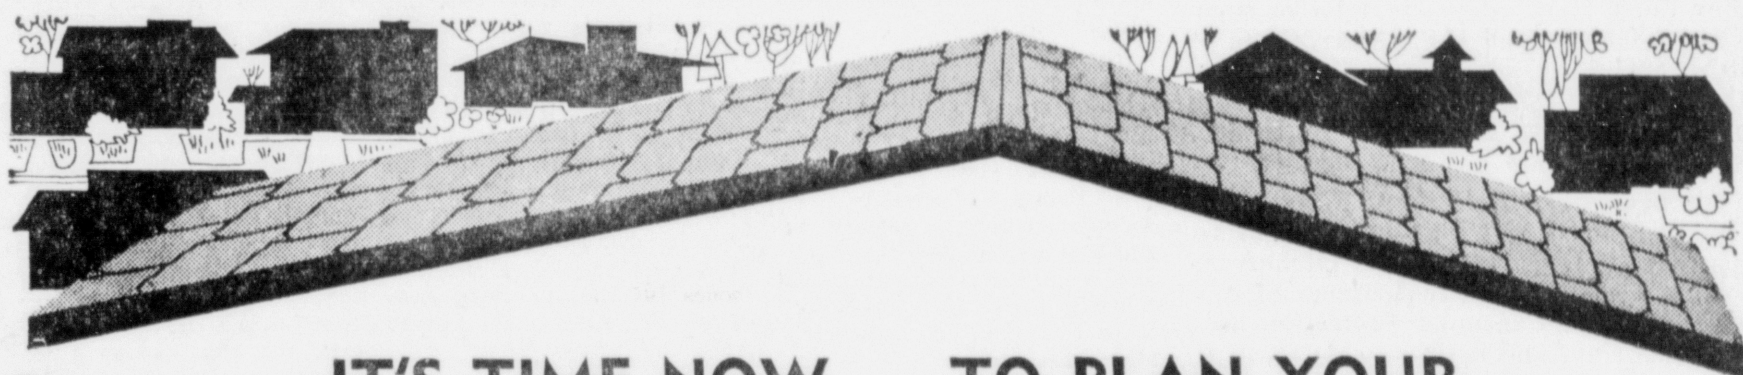

The former Air Force chief of staff says he was fired last October, about two weeks after receiving a leave of absence to campaign with former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. The company president, Mihai Patrichi, told him some stockholders disapproved of his candidacy, Lemay said.

The suit seeks $5 million in punitive damages and about $330,000 for loss of salary and stock options.

Order Pontiac Firemen To Work

PONTIAC (AP) — Pontiac firemen were ordered to return to work today, after a judge issued a temporary restraining order preventing the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association from causing its members to strike.

The firemen and two other unions which walked off their city jobs Friday were to appear before Oakland County Circuit Judge Philip Pratt today to show cause why the restraining order should not be made permanent. He issued the temporary order late Friday night.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has served the public well by changing the name of its Regulatory Bureau to the Bureau of Consumer Protection.

The change was faulty only in that it didn't go far enough. The name of the department should have been changed. Something like the Department of Food and Fiber Services would be more appropriate today, just as the Department of Natural Resources is a much more properly descriptive name for the old Conservation Department.

It may be asked: "What does it matter what you call it, if it does its work?"

This might have been a proper question a generation ago, but it is not a good one any more.

The changes from a rural to an urban society, from the little farm to the big industrial farm, from the little corner grocery to the supermarket, from the direct sale of food by the producer to the consumer to a complicated processing and marketing system have changed the functions of the State Department of Agriculture in a revolutionary way.

No longer is it chiefly concerned with the farmer's problems in producing foods and fibers in the public interest. Its most important function today is to protect the consumers of foods and fibers from impurities and to protect the public from harmful effect of farming practices, like the use of insecticides, herbicides, etc.

When Michigan was a rural state there was no great difficulty in getting an appropriation for the legitimate needs of the Department of Agriculture because so many legislators were farmers and familiar with the needs for the services to be financed. This is no longer true. The farmer legislator today is a rare bird, because the overwhelming power in politics has moved to the cities. The cities call the shots.

Most persons in Michigan don't know what the State Department of Agriculture does. They may think that it passes around free seeds to people like our congressmen used to do with the assistance of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. They don't know what the relative functions of the Michigan and U.S. Departments of Agriculture are. They don't know the line between the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Michigan State Department of Health.

It isn't necessary that they know these things. But it is important that our Legislature know them and it tends to take its pitch from public opinion. The Michigan Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Consumer Protection performs very important and indispensable services in protection of the public. It is very important that the new role of the department in an urbanized, industrialized state be impressive to the Legislature.

The Legislature has more needs for money than income and may think that with the decline in the number of farms that the State Department of Agriculture is a good place to get out the pruning saw. It isn't. Most of its work is to protect consumers and they have never needed it more.

Who Led Us?

Suddenly, four years after we started getting massively involved in Vietnam, and after the expenditure of more than 30,000 American lives and who really knows how many billions of dollars, we are discovering that the South Vietnamese are the bad guys after all.

Specifically, it is dapper, mustachioed little Vice President Ky, chief monkey wrench-tossing at the Paris peace talks, who is the villain.

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota has blasted Ky as "a tin-horn dictator" who is living high on American dollars and American blood.

Defense Secretary Clark Clifford, annoyed at the refusal of the South Vietnamese delegation to sit down at a bargaining table with the Viet Cong in a position of equality with themselves, has suggested that the United States deal unilaterally with North Vietnam on the question of troop withdrawals. This is echoed in a recently published article by Harvard historian Henry Kissinger, President-elect Nixon's appointee as chief foreign policy advisor.

Ky has dismissed the idea as so much "junk" and suggests that American critics "shut their mouths."

Obviously, there is little love lost between Americans and General Ky, who once reportedly expressed admiration for Adolf Hitler. But it should be just as obvious that Ky merely happens to be the handiest target available right now on which Americans can vent their mounting frustrations over this endless war.

We should not be so foolish as to believe that, were Ky to disappear, everything would be just fine in Vietnam and in Paris.

South Vietnam is not and never has been a democracy, or even a real nation. It is a backward, bleeding, much-colonized land that has been trying to forge a national identity and unity ever since it was created by international compromise in 1954, attempting to overcome its historical deficiencies while at the same time fighting for its life.

The time to be aware of corruption and malfeasance or misfeasance in South Vietnam was when we began giving aid, not now. The time to press for economic and political and military reforms was at the beginning of our involvement, not now.

Instead, we maintained the fiction that South Vietnam was a full-fledged sovereign nation and ally whose internal affairs we could not meddle in. It is a bit late now to blame the present rulers of South Vietnam for a situation that existed all along and which every nonadministration observer who went to Vietnam in the past 10 years abundantly documented and warned about.

About A Great Poet From Saginaw

Seager Writes Fine Book On Roethke

Poet Theodore Roethke was a giant of a man, so dismayed by his own poetic sensitivity that he liked to pretend an association with Detroit's notorious Purple Gang.

But he was at home with marigolds, not machine guns, a heritage of a youth spent in his florist father's greenhouse in Saginaw, Mich.

So strong was Roethke's association with the miracle of life that surrounded his youth, and so profound was his relationship with his father, that these two elements dominated all his life and art.

In a sense, giant though he became in art and stature, he was always the son bewildered and haunted by love-hate feelings toward his father, always the boy in the greenhouse.

These aspects of one of America's foremost poets are brought out in "The Glass House," a biography of Roethke by Allan Seager, himself a brilliant writer and teacher at the University of Michigan who happened to have been Roethke's classmate, faculty colleague, and personal friend.

"The Glass House" (the title refers to the greenhouse the Roethkes kept) was completed just before Seager's death last May. It has now been published by McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Full of wit and charm, the biography is the first full-length portrait of a remarkable poet, whose work brought him two National Book Awards, the Bollingen Prize, the Pulitzer Prize, and the American Academy of Arts and Letters Award.

Although Roethke's range of interests was perhaps not as wide as a few other artists, he worked hard to develop the poetic claim he staked out. And within his range, he is the most lyrical of poets.

"Once Theodore Roethke began writing poetry, he never stopped," Seager comments. "He got something down on paper almost every day."

Seager points out that "Roethke was a very complex person, and very few people would think of him as a poet since he was six-feet-three and weighed well over 200 pounds. He wore a mask that presented a tough-guy attitude, yet his poetry was terribly sensitive. This shield makes it difficult to find incidents in his life that show his sensitivity."

One such manifestation was Roethke's insistence on wrapping his head in a blanket at night before he could go to sleep. He thought everybody did that, and once he brought out a new baby blanket for a guest to do the same.

A borderline manic-depressive personality, Roethke made periodic trips to hospitals for treatment. But how well his mind functioned the rest of the time is evident in his emergence as "the greatest poet this country has produced" — as poet James Dickey calls him — and his greatness as a teacher; students at Lafayette College, Penn State, Bennington, and the University of Washington tended to worship him as disciples, Seager relates.

Seager has written a personal memoir more than a critical work, although it examines the sources of Roethke's poetry as few other writers could. The book takes Roethke from his Prussian background and boyhood in Saginaw, through student days at the University of Michigan, the exhausting days of learning to be a teacher and a poet, his emergence as an artist, comradeship with such as Dylan Thomas, a late marriage, and untimely death in 1963. Most of all it traces the autobiographical elements in the profoundly lyrical poetry of Theodore Roethke.

See Church Reform As Burden, Blessing

By DAVID POLING

Pope John XXIII once wrote to a friend: "If you hear anything good about me, praise the Lord as I do, for he has done it all. If you hear criticisms, pray for me, that the Lord may forgive me if the criticism is just, and if it is unjust, forgive whoever utters it."

Pope John had a divine instinct for reform and renewal in the church — the whole church. He also knew the resistance that would come, the forces that must be overcome if the church was to be truly Christian and truly reformed.

We are now at full crest as the waves of change wash across the beachheads of Christianity. The friends and associates and companions of good Pope John can hardly believe what he did in Vatican II. Nor can many of the hierarchy forgive him if the time-bombs that he set ticking all over the religious landscape. Now that the explosions of inquiry, dialogue and reform are releasing their deafening roar, the traditionalists are surrounded by their own fury at events and smoldering disgust of "good Pope John." As he said, "If you hear criticism . . ."

The critics are groping for the arguments of rebuttal. Authority, tradition and discipline have become an almost new Trinity if you read Vatican statements with regularity. But these have not performed well in the winds of change.

With puzzled exasperation, Pope Paul told a St. Peter's throng recently that this generation is "intoxicated with the spirit of change, ready to forget the past, interrupt tradition and abandon customs."

As if this did not jar the faithful, he said that many were accepting the "forms and spirit of the Protestant Reformation." That was meant as a criticism, not a compliment, yet if the Holy Father had made that statement at any Catholic university in this country it would have been greeted with applause!

But not everywhere. Tormented conservatives within the church, unable to understand the urge for reform and unwilling to respect its advocates, have proposed a more evil explanation for all the ferment that is sweeping conditions and cathedrals.

In her Open Line, predictions are made by Jeanne Dixon, as well as interpretations of current events. She summarizes her feelings about Catholic renewal with this excerpted letter from a friend:

"There are about 30,000 Communist clergymen . . . reared in the Soviet or satellites of the Soviet under their 10- and 20-year plans who are now ordained ministers and clergymen of all religions throughout the world but heavily concentrated in the United States. These men of the cloth are playing havoc with religion . . . and ripping apart all principle and practice . . . destroying from within . . . all under the guise of righteous or much-needed change . . . due to normal need or deserved needs of the churches."

Such absurd charges can be made only by those who have no reason left, no patience with the demands of change, no understanding of the requirements of this fast-moving century. As Pope John said, "If you hear criticisms, pray for me."

Win At Bridge

By JACOBY & SON

One of the modern wonder bids is the "negative" double. This is a double of an overcall for take out instead of business. We use the bid ourselves but are very careful with it when our partner has opened a minor, and the overcall is in the other minor, and we don't have both majors.

Prof. John McGervey of Western Reserve University in Cleveland would be one of our really great bridge players if he hadn't chosen to devote his life to a career in mathematics. He is still mighty good and a very tough competitor.

His two-club overcall came in an international match game when his side was trailing and against opponents who go all out for negative doubles. Sure enough, North did make a negative double. John's partner co-operated with Operation Monkey Wrench by raising to three clubs. South bid three hearts. We have no criticism of this bid. The negative double asks for a major suit and South had a sound opening with good

North felt that he was in a trap but was afraid to make matters worse by bidding and it was up to South to play the hand.

John led a club. Dummy's ace won and the spade finesse lost to John's king. A second club was ruffed by declarer who led a diamond to dummy's queen and East's ace. Back came a third club and South decided to jettison his eight of spades. John overtook and led a fourth club. Dummy discarded, East ruffed with the queen of trumps and South overplayed with the ace. Then South played the jack of trumps and his last trump to dummy's king.

At this point the hand collapsed. John was able to ruff the next diamond, pull the last trump with his 10 spot and cash his last two clubs for down three. This represented a 10-IMP pickup since at the other table John's North-South partners played and made a diamond part score.

Daughter Says She Picked Wrong Man

Dear Ann Landers: Perhaps I can help the woman who had a terrible problem with her child when a second baby arrived. I lived through a very difficult time until I hit on a solution.

Our son was two and a half years old when his sister was born. I had to remain with them constantly to catch flying objects and prevent him from pinching and hitting her. After months of policing the boy I could stand it no longer. I became so angry I came within inches of spanking the living daylight out of him.

Suddenly I realized that if I, an adult, could not contain my anger, how could I expect a two and a half year old child to contain his? When I got very angry I feel like striking out at something. So I reasoned if he were half as angry as I, he must feel like striking out at something, too.

I made a game of it. When we became angry we went together and kicked all the soft furniture in the room. Then we kicked the floor as hard as we could.

You can't believe the change that came over this boy. Within days he was a wonderful child again. Please tell parents not to intensify a child's anger by spanking him. Instead show him to direct his anger toward an inanimate object — and get rid of it.—HOOSIER STATE MOM

Dear Mom: Hostile feelings must be released. If children could be taught to vent their anger against furniture and not other people, they would grow up to be healthier and happier adults and we could close some of our reform schools and penitentiaries.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Mary was going steady with Arthur. After he left for Viet Nam they exchanged letters three times a week.

Then Chuck appeared on the scene. Her letters to Arthur fell off. Chuck kept pressing to be her one and only. Mary stopped writing to Arthur completely.

Four months later Mary accepted a diamond from Chuck and the wedding plans were set. Then Arthur came home. Mary saw him on the sly and the poor girl was a wreck. She couldn't make up her mind which boy she loved. Until the day of the wedding I wasn't sure she'd go through with it.

Well, Mary did marry Chuck and that was eight months ago. Last week she told me she had made a mistake. She says Chuck is a bore and she is in love with Arthur. She is sure if she divorces Chuck, Arthur will marry her although she has not seen him since the wedding.

I am ashamed to go to a preacher with this. You can't imagine how it hurts a mother's heart to see her 19-year-old daughter looking for a second husband already. What can I do? — SHATTERED MOM

Dear Mom: Nothing. This is your daughter's problem. Unfortunately Mary wasn't ready for marriage. If she chucks Chuck and marries Arthur she will probably decide in eight months that Arthur is a bore. This girl has a lot of growing up to do before she can be a fit wife for anybody.

Nixon Getting Results In Winning Over Unions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Nixon, spurred by organized labor in his election campaign, appears to be quietly trying to woo major union elements with some results.

Leaders of two major groups of the 13.6 million member AFL-CIO already have stated that they see more to be gained under Nixon than labor won in return for its almost total political support of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Mrs. H. Johnson Taken By Death

Mrs. Hannah M. Johnson of 617 N. 16th St., a patient at St. Francis Hospital for the past week, died there at 4:15 a. m. today. She was 72 years old.

Mrs. Johnson was born at Wilson on Feb. 2, 1897. Her husband, William C. Johnson, died Dec. 14, 1966.

She was a member of Central Methodist Church.

"They really laid down heavy barages on us," said President Paul Hall of the 39-union Maritime Trades Department in criticizing Democratic refusal to accept labor proposals to strengthen the nation's dwindling merchant fleet.

Maritime

"If Nixon does anything for maritime, he'll win a lot of friends in the labor movement," Hall said in an interview. Nixon sent Hall a telegram pledging action to strengthen the U.S. Merchant Marine industry.

Earlier, President C. J. Haggerty of the 17-union Building and Construction Trades Department criticized the Johnson administration, saying it treated his group as "a black ogre" in fights over wages and charges of racial discrimination in job training.

Both Hall and Haggerty, while in a minority among the 122 union presidents in the politically powerful labor federation, said they expected a better deal from Nixon's Republican administration on labor matters.

Cautious Optimism

While obviously too early to tell, such a trend could bring Nixon substantial labor support if he runs for reelection in 1972.

The AFL-CIO in the past eight years had delivered almost monolithic support to Democratic presidential candidates.

The labor leaders also give Nixon points for not trying to compel a settlement of the two month longshoremen's strike with special legislation such as Johnson had done in some major strikes.

One major reservation in labor's cautious optimism toward the GOP administration is Nixon's proposal for "new approaches" in federal labor law for dealing with national emergency strikes. The only weapon in the present Taft-Hartley Act is an 80-day cooling off injunction to halt a strike which the government considers endangers the national health or safety.

Most union chiefs here don't see any stiff new antistrike law in the cards, but they are waiting to cross examine Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz on what Nixon has in mind.

Shultz will appear before the AFL-CIO executive council next week.

Club Discrimination May Be Ready For Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court appeal that could begin to crumble the last great citadel of discrimination—private clubs—has won the potent support of the Justice Department.

Moving much as it did before another landmark civil rights decision a year ago, the government Friday jumped to the assistance of two Negro women who claimed they were banned from a nominally private swim club in Arkansas.

In the earlier case, a private suit was elevated to a government crusade when the Justice Department backed a plea brought by a racially mixed St. Louis couple who were unable to buy the house they wanted.

Swimming Club

The result was the monumental court decision last June that more than 100 years ago Congress had prohibited racial discrimination in housing sales and rentals.

The government is basing its argument in the current case on the same law which gave Negroes freed in the Civil War the right to "make and enforce contracts without discrimination."

The women, Mrs. Doris Daniel and Mrs. Rosalyn Kyles, want to use Lake Nixon, a club 12 miles west of Little Rock that offers swimming, picnicking, boating, sun bathing and miniature golf.

The club charges a membership fee of 25 cents, giving it a private character beyond the reach, so far, of modern-day civil rights law.

Entering the case as a "friend of the court," the Justice Department insisted the 1866 law "prohibits all private, racially motivated conduct which denies or interferes with the Negroes' right to enter into contracts to purchase that which is freely sold to white citizens. That membership in the Lake Nixon Club is a contractual relationship can hardly be denied."

Open Doors

The government said the equal accommodations section of the 1964 civil rights law also forces Lake Nixon—and nominally private clubs like it—to open their doors to Negro members.

The reason, the government said, is that by importing juke boxes, records and 15 paddle boats from out of state and by serving interstate travelers at a snack bar, the club is in interstate commerce and therefore forbidden to discriminate.

As welcome as the Nixon administration's action will be to civil rights forces, it goes just so far.

It does not encompass what the government called bona fide private clubs. "Purely social or personal arrangements are beyond the intended reach of the 1866 law," the department said.

They also spent four days in the Los Angeles, Calif., area, visiting Disneyland, Universal Studios and Hollywood.

U.S. In A Mess, Says Reasoner

Harry Reasoner, the popular CBS news commentator, presented a bleak commentary on the state of the nation before a capacity audience at Northern Michigan University Thursday night.

Addressing an estimated 2,000, Reasoner said the United States "seems to be in a mess."

America, he said, "is now at the pinnacle of its power, but it seems to be coming apart. We have a greater growth than any country ever had before, but it seems a deformity. After 30 years of leadership, we have lost whatever we had in this world."

Reasoner, who often substitutes for Walter Cronkite as New York anchor man on the daily CBS news telecasts, seasoned his remarks with a generous sprinkling of humor. But the theme remained somber.

In a time of prosperity, he said, American youth is alienated. We are now able to put men around the moon, but we also ruin Santa Barbara's beaches with oil pollution. "Technicians can give us high fidelity tapes, but they have no idea of what to do about Israel or Vietnam."

Indicative of the troubled times was the 1968 presidential campaign, which Reasoner said was the only one in his memory in which an American President was selected by voters "without any enthusiasm." He pointed out that 75 per cent of the eligible voters did not vote for Richard Nixon and said he sensed that probably more than half of the Republicans at the national convention in Miami would have preferred Ronald Reagan to Nixon as their party's candidate—"if they could have voted their emotions."

Nixon, Reasoner said, was a compromise candidate. And so was the Democrats' Hubert Humphrey.

"The only candidate who seemed to stir enthusiasm was George Wallace," he said.

Both Nixon and Humphrey acted like compromise candidates.

Reasoner blamed much of the nation's ills on cynicism, self-serving attitudes and "a lack of principles that produces Orval Faubus on one side and Adam Clayton Powells on the other."

"We're late for our problems," he said. "We have a feeling in 1969 that we went wrong somehow. We wonder what happened to this country."

Reasoner said some people believe the trouble began in 1897 or 1898 when there was a confrontation between the imperialists who favored war with Spain over Cuba and those opposed to war. "The imperialists won, and we started on the course that seemed to lead inevitably to World War I, then to World War II, Korea and Vietnam."

The commentator said, "Businessmen, teachers, politicians, students, journalists—all of us have failed in our responsibility. Only the technician has been ready. Only technology has grown in this problem. We're in a technological revolution."

But, he added, "It seems to me that technicians cannot solve the real problems."

Expect 25,000 For Ski Meet At Iron Mt.

IRON MOUNTAIN — Upwards of 25,000 spectators were expected at Pine Mountain today for what observers believe may produce a new North American ski jumping distance record.

A field of 60 skiers began jumping in the Pine Mountain Classic at 1:30 p. m. today.

The Kiwanis Ski Club invitational meet Sunday also will begin at 1:30 p. m.

The present North American distance record was set at Westby, Wis., by Bjorn Wirkola, who leaped 338 feet in 1968. Kiwanis Ski Club officials indicated that a 350-foot jump might be possible this weekend.

Japanese and Norwegian skiers along with United States Olympians are in the starting line.

But until the bill receives House approval and is signed by Milliken, Schweigert is not officially acting lieutenant governor.

Sources said that the bill is designed to give Schweigert a head start in the race for the lieutenant governor's nomination.

However, Schweigert declined to speculate on his political ambitions. He has often been allied with Milliken. Since 1960 when both were elected to political positions.

Milk Production In State Gains

Milk production in Michigan rose last month for the first time since December 1967, according to Dr. John Ferris, Michigan State University agricultural economist. December milk production in Michigan was about 372 million pounds, compared with 371 million pounds in December 1967. This is the first time since January 1965 that milk production has exceeded earlier levels.

Nationally, milk production in December continued under last year by about one per cent, bringing the year's total production also down about one per cent.

The quantity of milkfat consumed as fluid milk in 1968 was about equal to 1967, as increased consumption of low fat and skim milk almost offset lower fluid whole milk use. Commercial consumption of butter, cheese, and ice cream was greater in 1968 and more than offset reduced consumption of evaporated milk and fluid cream.

hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

When reinforcement rings for looseleaf pages are needed, I cut off and use the gummed area from "junk mail" envelope flaps.

For quick and easy double reinforcements, just bend a strip of the gummed paper over a torn edge so both sides will be mended at once. Then punch new hole.

They are especially useful when index tabs are needed. Just bend a strip over both sides of the edge of the paper, leaving enough of the strip extended for desired size of tab.

Pearl E. Fitzpatrick

Dear Heloise:

Envelopes can be used for something at last. Hooray!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The hint telling how to make throwaway bibs with paper toweling by putting many pieces of paper together and using odds and ends of bias binding around the neck to hold them together was good.

I put a layer of waxed paper between the two layers of toweling, thus giving more protection.

I also add another touch.

When rounding the corners, I use my pinking shears and cut clear around them. So easy to make.

Mrs. Ed Crammer

Dear Heloise:

You know how powder can soil a dark dress around the neck?

I use a small piece of wool cut from an old suit. Just rub it over powder smears and it will remove it without a trace.

I've tried this on just about every material and it works.

Dorothy Walker

It shore-do, Honeychile.

You're the dream boat that just sailed into our harbor!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Since my husband can never find the clothes he wants in his closet, I divided them in categories such as dress clothes, work clothes, yard clothes, etc., and wrote each category on adhesive tape which I stuck to the clothes bar itself.

No more problems now and a MUCH neater closet.

Mrs. Gray

Dear Heloise:

I have found a way that prevents the pile-up of food containers in my freezer, and it works on anything from liquids to solids.

Just put an extra large piece of plastic wrap in a bowl or cup (large enough for the food you want to freeze). Put the food in the wrap and freeze. When it's frozen, just lift out the plastic wrap full of food and put it back in the freezer. No dirty container either!

Carol D.

Dear Heloise:

I have several favorite dresses with roll collars, but when I pack them for a trip, they arrive with a crease in the center front.

So now I fold a long piece of tissue paper, twist it three or four times, and pin it under the collar.

Bess Dunning

Dear Heloise:

My mother threw away our old toaster cover and used a plastic rain bonnet for a cover.

It fit perfectly and since everyone usually has several extra plastic rain bonnets lying around, one won't be missed.

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

There is the following sign in one of our grocery store windows:

"Old Tough Meat
Wilted Lettuce
Rotten Vegetables
Stale Bread"

And believe it or not, it's the most popular grocery in town, with the BEST selection!

Reader

Dear Heloise:

You know how expensive those perfumed candles are? Well, I discovered you can use perfumed oil to scent paraffin. Put the perfumed oil in after all the paraffin has melted and just ready to pour.

Wonderful idea to save Money.

Peggy Ellingson

Dear Heloise:

When roasting a whole chicken or a turkey over charcoal on the rotisserie, I peel and quarter an onion and an apple, and put them in the cavity.

As the chicken or turkey rolls around, the onion and apple rolls, too. This gives added flavor and keeps the meat moist.

Swanee

Dear Heloise:

I am a driver-salesman for a chain of dry-cleaning establishments.

I would like to state to all housewives that there is no such thing as a permanent pleat where dry-cleaning is concerned.

However, before a garment is placed in the dry-cleaning fluid, the pleat may be considered permanent. But, after it has been saturated with the fluid, the pleats lose their permanency.

The cleaners have to re-set the pleats, and that is why they have to charge "so much per pleat!"

Dear Heloise:

I have found a way that prevents the pile-up of food containers in my freezer, and it works on anything from liquids to solids.

Just put an extra large piece of plastic wrap in a bowl or cup (large enough for the food you want to freeze). Put the food in the wrap and freeze. When it's frozen, just lift out the plastic wrap full of food and put it back in the freezer. No dirty container either!

Dear Heloise:

For those who have trouble with their birdbath freezing and can't get the ice out I suggest that they lay a strong stick or rod in the bath with one end extending out over the edge. Then, by using the stick as a pry, the ice can be lifted out easily.

Mrs. Daniel L. Wood (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Patricia LaFleur, Daniel L. Wood Wed

Patricia Ann LaFleur of Escanaba became the bride of Daniel Lee Wood of Columbus, Ohio during a single ring ceremony performed today, Feb. 15 at St. Patrick's Church in Escanaba.

The bridal aides were attired in identical peach colored floor length gowns, featuring Empire waists and bell sleeves. Matching headpieces and veils with velvet ribbon streamers completed their attire and they carried cascade arrangements of carnations with ribbon trim.

Tall gold vases filled with arrangements of gladioli and carnations adorned the altar for the service. The Rev. James Pepin heard the exchange of vows at 12 noon.

Mrs. LaFleur chose for her daughter's wedding a cranberry velvet sleeveless dress with matching accessories and she was presented a corsage of light pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Wood wore a blue wool sleeveless dress with matching accessories and she pinned a corsage of pink sweetheart roses with white accents.

Special music for the wedding was provided by Mark and Katherine Primiski. During the service the bride placed a single red rose at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. LaFleur of 1813 Ludington St. and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wood of 3031 Atwood Terrace, Columbus.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length princess styled gown of slipper satin fashioned with long tapered sleeves and a queen's train which was attached at the shoulders.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted Friday evening by the bridegroom's parents at the Old Town Restaurant.

The couple will make their home at 120 N. Yearling Road, Columbus, Ohio. The bride is a 1965 graduate of Holy Name High School and Mr. Wood graduated in 1963 from Linden-McKinley High School.

The reception is being held this afternoon in the church parlors and assisting with duties are Cheryl Criel, Donna Bittner, Mrs. Michael Nelson, Judy Banon and Andrea Anderson.

Her shoulder length Empire veil was secured to a cluster headpiece of satin roses and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and red sweetheart roses with trailing ivy.

Maid of honor for her sister was Christine Marie LaFleur and bridesmaid was Bonnie Meyers. Serving as best man was Joseph Canoles of Marquette and groomsmen was Jerry Turek of Stephenson.

Performing ushering duties were Terrance L. Guay and Charles F. Guay, cousins of the bride. Carrying the wedding rings was Richard L. LaFleur, brother of the bride.

R. C. Hathaway Chapter 49, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple. Men of the chapter will serve as hosts for the social hour.

A Cobbler Is A Family Dessert

Cobblers are just as American as apple pie, and justly popular with families. They're flavorful, hearty and satisfying.

This homey dessert always has a layer of fruit, like a deep-dish pie, and a topping that's on the biscuit or cake side.

But even though cobblers have been made for years, every once in a while an enterprising cook makes it with a new fruit combination. That's just what we have for you today. This cobbler boasts canned apricot halves and fresh orange sections for its fruit base, then a cakelike layer for its topping.

APRICOT ORANGE COBBLER

- ¾ cup sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces) apricot halves
- ¾ cup orange sections (2 oranges)
- ½ teaspoon grated orange rind
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 egg
- ¾ cup butter or margarine, melted
- ½ cup milk

On wax paper sift together flour, baking powder and salt; set aside.

Drain apricot halves, reserving syrup — about 1½ cups. Place apricot halves and orange sections in bottom of baking dish (8 by 8 by 2 inches); sprinkle with orange rind.

In medium saucepan mix ¼ cup of the sugar and the corn starch. Stir in reserved apricot syrup. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil and boils 1 minute. Pour cornstarch mixture over fruit. Put in pre-

L'Anse Woman Dies In Fire

L'ANSE (AP) — A L'Anse township woman died today and her four-year-old son remains in critical condition from burns suffered in a house fire. Baraga hospital authorities reported the victim, Mrs. Ruth Leed, 27, and a son, David, were burned over the greater part of their bodies, before being pulled from the home Thursday by a neighbor. Her husband Carl, and another son, Michael, 6, were away at the time. The family had been living in the uncompleted home, now destroyed, for six months before the fire. L'Anse is about 35 miles south of Houghton in the Upper Peninsula.

Indict Officials On Fraud Count

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana's attorney general, a state legislator and two other men have been indicted on charges of obtaining money and property by fraud and conspiracy. The 16-count indictment returned Friday by a federal grand jury stemmed from the bankruptcy of the Louisiana Loan & Thrift Corp., which had about 1,400 depositors and deposits of $2.5 million. Jack P. F. Gremillion, state attorney general since 1954, said, "I am deeply shocked and surprised at the indictments. I will be completely vindicated." The indictment accuses the five defendants of making false statements to prospective purchasers to stimulate sales of L&T bond investment certificates and of diverting money from the firm to their own benefit. It lists one count of conspiracy and five counts each of mail fraud, fraud in the sale of securities and sale of unregistered securities are listed in the 23-page indictment. State Rep. Salvador Anzelmo, 35, a New Orleans attorney; Joseph H. Kavanaugh, 35, of Baton Rouge, counsel for the State Public Service Commission and former assistant attorney general; Charles H. Ritchey, 30, a lawyer from the New Orleans suburb of Metairie; and Earnest H. Bartlett, 29, of Fort Smith, Ark., chief executive officer and chairman of L&T's board of directors, were the others named in the indictment.

Cities To Hear Anti-Pollution Bond Fund Plan

Officials of the City of Escanaba will be in Lansing next week for a meeting of the Michigan Municipal League, where they will hear a report on the state's water pollution control grant program—a matter of vital financial importance to the people of Escanaba. Escanaba is planning the improvement of its water supply and distribution and wastewater treatment systems. The cost is estimated at $4.7 million and part of the funding is expected to come from state and federal sources. Michigan voters approved bonding to assist communities in financing such works as anti-pollution measures, but Escanaba

Council Session

The City Council of Escanaba will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Delta County Building, advancing the session from Thursday because of the scheduled Municipal League conference in Lansing. On the agenda are further consideration of city charter amendments; report and recommendations on bids for a motor grader; and first reading of a subdivision ordinance, reports City Manager George Harvey. An amended lease with Harnischfeger Corp. for the use of the Stephenson Ave. and former Venus buildings owned by the city; and a request for permission to undertake borings for a water intake and elevated water storage tank are also to be considered.

naba and other cities as yet do not know how much they may anticipate in aid from state sources. Mayor Cecil B. Chase and Councilmen Robert Bink and Miles Dupuis, plus Howard Smale, administrative assistant, and City Clerk Don Guindon will be in Lansing for the Municipal League meeting Feb. 19-20. Guindon is serving on the League's elections committee and was reappointed for a third year; Smale is a member of the League's labor committee. The council members and Smale will leave for Lansing on Tuesday and Guindon on Wednesday, and they are expected to return on Friday. Over 650 municipal officials, legislators and guests are expected at the state legislative conference sponsored by the League.

The conference is designed to improve communications between local officials and the State Legislature and to acquaint municipal officials with the state legislative process. Activities will include general information sessions, specific program-area discussions, a banquet, a luncheon presentation by Gov. William G. Milliken and an opportunity for municipal officials to view the legislature in action.

State Representative Raymond J. Smit will talk on the state's water pollution control grant program and State Representative David Serotkin will speak on the state recreation bond fund. The afternoon session will end with a consideration of "Public Employee Relations Problems" by Saginaw Mayor Henry G. Marsh, chairman of the NML Employee Relations Committee, and State Senator Robert Vander Laan, vice-chairman of the Senate labor committee.

On Thursday William A. Ryan, speaker of the House of Representatives, and Emil Lockwood, Senate majority leader, will speak on "The Legislature and Local Government Problems."

Gov. Milliken will address the delegates Thursday.

The League, representing 436 member cities and villages in Michigan, serves to strive collectively for home rule and promote high standards of municipal government.

Chicago Students Call Off Sit-In

CHICAGO (AP) — Student rebels gave up the University of Chicago administration building Friday and protest leaders conceded their 15-day sit-in had achieved none of its goals.

"The sit-in ends in defeat," declared Howard Machtinger at a rally of the dissidents in front of the building they had seized Jan. 30. He attributed the defeat to disunity among the protesters.

"We leave not because power confrontation or coercion is wrong," Machtinger said. "We must either coerce or be coerced, violently or quietly."

Machtinger, a graduate student in sociology, termed the university a "racist, suppressive, reactionary institution," and he urged continued action against the school.

Environmental Health Group Plans Service

The Environmental Health Committee of the Delta County Health Council held its first meeting this week at the County Building to explore the needs and resources available.

Discussion resulted in an informal definition of environmental health as application of health practices to the environment for the purpose of improving man's working environment in health, social and economic wellbeing.

Suggestion was made that before environmental problems could be identified an inventory of environmental services and those being planned be undertaken.

The municipal water and sewerage problems in Delta County were discussed and Donald Veeder, sanitarian of the Michigan Department of Public Health, reported on problems of environmental health in Delta County. It was suggested that the sanitarian from Delta County be included in the committee makeup as he would have first hand information and be able to evaluate problems priorities for the committee.

Possible need of countywide planning to eliminate some of the present environmental health problems was suggested.

This group is a sub-section of the Delta Health Planning Council of which Mrs. Donald Goulais is president.

Attending were: Mrs. Charles Byrnes, Mrs. Forrest Henslee, Dr. D. A. Jondrow, Donald Veeder, Francis D'Amour and Dr. Mary Cretens.

Low-Cost Housing Plans Discussed

STEPHENSON — Representatives from the Village of Stephenson and the Stephenson Development Corp. met recently to discuss low-rent housing for the elderly as well as for low-income and moderate income families.

Richard Dodge, housing specialist from UPICAP, reported on the various plans that are available through Federal funds. The Stephenson Village Council has authority to organize a Housing Commission which would investigate housing plans, to make community studies and surveys, and to submit proposals to the Federal government for approval.

Attending the meeting were Herbert W. Corey, Joseph B. Gucky, Francis Menacher, Harry Westrich, Kenneth Rickaby, George Beaudoin and Donald Johnson.

Escanaba Up 43.83%:

City Airport Gain Highest In U.P.

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Among airports in seven Upper Peninsula cities, Escanaba Municipal Airport in 1968 had a 43.83 per cent passenger volume increase — largest in the region.

There were gains in all other communities served by North Central Airlines, Inc., but Escanaba's spurt was outstanding, jumping from 7,862 in 1967 to 11,308 last year, a rise of 3,446 passengers.

The comparative figures reported by North Central for the two years are for the number of passengers originated in each of the seven communities, reports Kenneth S. Turpin, North Central's assistant manager of public relations.

The totals for the seven major communities served by North Central and the percentage increase:

City	1968	% Increase
Escanaba	11,308	43.83
Houghton	14,079	12.67
Iron Mt.	13,200	16.44
Ironwood	7,036	16.69
Marquette	21,807	10.99
Menominee	8,674	13.43
Sault Ste. Marie	11,444	10.02

Escanaba's municipal airport is one of few remaining in Michigan that are not county airports, operated by and the financial responsibility of a county. In Delta County the Board of Supervisors makes an annual appropriation, which the City of Escanaba feels is inadequate in meeting the proportionate share for a service that benefits the entire county.

Presently the City of Escanaba is financing the development of the airport to meet North Central's announced plan to place jet planes in service here.

The west end of the east-west runway is being lengthened and this is to be completed by mid-year 1969, according to City Manager George Harvey.

North Central, however, says that it will not begin jet service into the U. P. until at least one other airport is ready—for example it could be Escanaba-Marquette, Escanaba - Iron Mountain.

"Generally speaking, as soon as two fields are ready we will put them (jets) on," said David E. Moran, North Central vice president traffic and sales.

The need for two fields was explained by Moran: Escanaba or any other one community could not originate enough passengers for a 99-passenger DC-9.

Escanaba has completed construction of a new airport terminal building and it will be placed in use later this spring when taxiways and aprons are surfaced.

Plans are being made for an airport dedication celebration to be held July 4 weekend, and hopefully there will be flights by one of the nation's outstanding air thrill teams.

Russ Says Berlin Election Illegal

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union warned West Germany today plans to hold a presidential election in West Berlin next month are unlawful and punishable. But the Russians did not threaten any specific penalty.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda carried the oblique warning in a front-page editorial devoted otherwise to an appeal for European security, peaceful coexistence and more East-West contacts.

The warning merely endorsed travel restrictions imposed by East Germany. It followed delivery of Soviet government notes to the Western allies Friday which reportedly urged them to avoid conflict over the Berlin questions.

Western diplomats generally doubt that the Soviet Union will let the Berlin tension escalate into a showdown with the Western allies.

Snow Sweeps Great Plains

By The Associated Press
Snow swept much of the Great Plains region today and slowed highway travel through an area from Oklahoma to Minnesota.

Cold rain chilled a wide stretch of the South and turned to sleet or snow in some upland sections of the Southeast.

Travelers warnings were in effect for portions of 16 states in the midcontinent and across the South.

A slow-moving weather system stretching the length of the plains heaped 6 to 14 inches of snow in parts of central Kansas, eastern Nebraska and southeastern South Dakota since Thursday night. Warnings of heavy snow were issued for northeastern Oklahoma.

Rain fell from Texas to Georgia through the night. Temperatures settled into the 30s over most of the region.

A new storm system bearing down on the Pacific Northwest scattered rain from West Virginia into central California. Travelers warnings were in effect for locally heavy snow in mountain areas of northern California.

Clear skies were confined to the northeastern quarter of the country which also was nipped by the coldest weather. Temperatures slid into the teens from Michigan to Massachusetts and south into Maryland.

The mercury tumbled to 9 below zero at Pellston, Mich., while Key West, Fla., had an overnight low of 72.

Youth Killed Drag Racing

MUSKEGON (AP)—A 17-year-old youth was killed today when the sheriff's department said he swerved his car on a highway near Muskegon and overturned after seeing an oncoming car. The youth was identified as Steven Miller of Fruitport Township.

The Muskegon County Sheriff's Department said it dispatched a sheriff's cruiser to investigate reports of drag racing at Fruitport Township.

Deputies said that Miller's car and another were travelling side by side in the same direction, when Miller saw the oncoming car, which proved to be the sheriff's cruiser.

Deputies said Miller apparently stepped on the brakes and his car overturned. Another youth in the car was injured.

His death was the second recorded on Michigan highways so far this weekend. In the first accident, 16-year-old Robert Charles Coy of Toledo was killed Friday night on U.S. 24 in Monroe County's Bedford Township. He was a passenger in a car involved in a broadside accident. Seven other persons were injured, none seriously.

Friends Finance Birthday Visit

BAY CITY (AP)—Because of a casual remark to a friend, George D. Gipson, 69, of Bay City will be flying to Alabama to be with his mother on her birthday and the birthday of Mattie Gipson will be her 102nd or 103rd — family records are uncertain of which.

It all started when Gipson's wife, Clara, mentioned to a friend that her mother-in-law's birthday would be Feb. 19.

The friend told her husband, who in turn told another friend.

Before long, 10 Bay City businessmen agreed among themselves to pay for travel arrangements for the birthday visit.

Managers of two clothing stores thought it would be nice if the travelers had new wardrobes, so they provided them.

Everybody is remaining very anonymous about the donations.

Most of them, though are friends of Gipson from his many years as a porter and bartender at Bay City country club until he retired in the mid 1950s.

Gipson, his wife Clara and a niece, Denise, 16 will fly south Saturday to Mrs. Gipson's home in Sheffield, Ala.

They're sure, too, the blind but energetic woman will enjoy not only their visit but a special letter of congratulations and best wishes signed by President Richard M. Nixon.

Fails To Pay 82 Parking Tickets

ANN ARBOR (AP)—After piling up parking violation tickets at the rate of almost two a week, Janice Weener of Ann Arbor has been fined $750.

Miss Weener, an office worker at the University of Michigan, pleaded guilty to failure to pay 82 parking tickets issued to her car in less than a year.

Judge S. J. Elden of District Court, who fined her $750 or 60 days in jail Wednesday, said it was "one of the most flagrant abuses of city ordinances I have ever seen."

Miss Weener spent a couple of hours in the jail until a firm loaned her money to pay the fine.

At the same time, Kazen M. Irvanti, a friend of Miss Weener, pleaded guilty to seven traffic violations, including speeding and running stop signals, which occurred while he was using Miss Weener's car. Irvanti was fined $266.

Neither Irvanti nor Miss Weener had any explanation in court for the numerous tickets.

John Adams' sense of justice led him to act as defense counsel for Capt. Preston and the British soldiers charged with manslaughter in the Boston Massacre.

GLADSTONE Gym Popular As Teen Club

The Gladstone High School Gym is a popular spot on Thursday evenings when between 100 and 200 students gather to play volleyball, basketball, table tennis or just get together with their friends to listen to records. Doors open at 7 p. m.

These students are members of the Community School Teen Club organized out of a need of some place in town for students to get together in the evenings.

The High School Gym seemed to be the only building of adequate size in Gladstone and school authorities granted permission for its use on Thursday evenings under the direction of Coach Don Pfotenhauer.

The club is open to all High School students who reside in Gladstone or attend a local school. A slight fee is charged each student for the year and members receive a card entitling them to attend any club activity.

Robert Richards is director of the very successful Community School program.

Pro To Give Golf Lessons

Golf lessons, under the direction of Harry Cebale, Class A golf pro, will be available under the Community School Program, beginning Feb. 25, according to Robert Richards, director.

Cebale has been a golf pro in Marquette for the past 12 years and will conduct classes for a five week period. A fee will be payable at the first class meeting and those wishing to participate will need to bring throw rugs and tennis shoes. Clubs, balls, tees and mats will be furnished.

Interested persons may call the Community School office, 425-3321.

No Peddlers On Nixon's Street

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — There's been a distinct absence of door-to-door peddlers at John Hardy's house since President Nixon moved in across the street.

Since the winter White House was established on the coconut palm-shrouded street, Bay Lane has been off limits for everybody but residents and their visitors.

Secret Service agents man a blockade at the head of the road 24 hours a day and make certain nobody wanders in. Residents must show their identification each time they pass.

"It can be annoying to be stopped when you're in a hurry," says Hardy, "but the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages."

"For instance," added Hardy, a British steamship agent, "it's fascinating to watch the President come and go. There are no itinerant salesmen and the security here is great."

Bay Lane is on Key Biscayne, an island on Biscayne Bay about four miles from downtown Miami. Like many other upper class residential areas, it's had its share of burglaries, but not any more, with the security men on hand.

Exempts Elderly From School Tax

LANSING (AP) — Bills exempting certain elderly persons from school taxes and to provide three-year license plates were introduced Thursday in the House of Representatives.

Rep. John Kelsey, D-Warren, sponsored the bill exempting persons over 65 from paying taxes for school purposes.

Persons exempted would have to be residents of Michigan for at least five of the last 10 years. In addition, household income must not exceed $6,500 per year, nor could property or home-stead exceed $15,000 state equalized value.

Rep. Thomas J. Anderson, R-Pontiac, submitted a bill to permit license plates to be used for three years.

Annual registration tabs or stickers would be used to update the plates during years when new plates were not issued, Anderson said.

New York Longshoremens End Eight Week Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Port of New York longshoremens return to work today after eight weeks on strike with a new three-year contract in their pockets, but negotiations continue at other Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Longshoremens voted Friday, by 9,328 to 3,213, to accept the agreement reached on Jan. 14 by the New York Shipping Association and the International Longshoremen's Association.

The ballot was held under a federal court order secured by the National Labor Relations Board. Union officials had sought to block the vote until the others agreed to similar terms.

On the eve of the vote union leaders were urging ratification, apparently believing it would put pressure on the other ports. But William Arnett, chief negotiator for the West Coast Maritime Association in Galveston, Tex., said "A settlement in New York means only that—a settlement in New York."

Tentative agreements had already been reached in ports from Morehead City, N.C. to Puerto Rico but no breakthroughs have been reported at the larger ports.

Negotiations were set for this afternoon in Philadelphia. No definite time was decided on in Boston.

In Baltimore and Norfolk, Va., management associations presented what they called their "final offers" Friday after several weeks of intensive negotiations and said no more details were bargainable.

The 75,000-member ILA resumed its strike Dec. 20 after the expiration of an 80-day "cooling off" injunction secured by the federal government.

The longest strike in the nation's waterfront history was estimated by shipping sources to have cost the nation $15 million a day, while some other sources put the cost as high as $2 billion for the strike.

In ports from Maine to Texas, 651 ships were reported immobilized by the strike. Two hundred twelve of them were anchored in the New York area.

Hamtramck Must Pay Pension Fund

HAMTRAMCK (AP) — The city of Hamtramck may have to issue bonds to pay almost $800,000 to former city employees whose pension benefits were illegally withheld from retired police and firemen between 1959 and 1966.

Of the $792,513 courts have ruled the city owes the pensioners, $175,000 is back interest the pensioners would not have received had they been paid in time.

Albert Zak, now facing a movement to recall him from his post as chairman of the Wayne County board of supervisors, was Hamtramck mayor during the first four years of the six-year period.

The contract with the 140-firm New York Shipping Association calls for a $1.60 wage benefit package providing $4.60 an hour in the last year, an annual guarantee of 2,080 hours of employment, and a clause giving the union the right to unpack and reload certain cargo containers originating within 50 miles of the city. The old hourly wage was $3.62.

Try Wayne Editor For Assault On TV Newscaster

DETROIT (AP) — The editor of Wayne State University's controversial student newspaper will be tried March 6 on a charge of assault against a television newscaster.

Twenty-five-year-old John Watson was arraigned Friday, pleading innocent to the charge of assaulting Joe Weaver, who had gone to the offices of the paper, The South End, to interview Watson about accusations against the paper made by University President William R. Keast.

Weaver claimed Watson pushed him down and hit him when the newscaster tried to leave the office. The South End, in its account of the incident, said Weaver started the fight when Watson tried to leave the office.

Recorder's Judge Robert Colombo set the trial date Friday and released Watson on $1,000 personal bond.

Weaver works for WJBK-TV, Detroit.

Spreen Proposes Detroit Love-In

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit police commissioner Johannes Spreen proposed on St. Valentine's Day.

Here's what he proposed: "Let's start a mammoth love-in in Detroit until June 1 and see what it brings. Let's shake the people up."

Under his plan Detroiters would withhold criticism of the police operation which Spreen has headed for seven months.

The period, Spreen explained at a news conference, should give him time to make some changes and give them a chance to work. "Then let the people be the judge," he said.

"Everybody wants to run the department..." he said. He asked for a "chance to change the department by ourselves."

Spreen noted there was a 100-day honeymoon when he moved to Detroit from the New York police Department. Then, he said, "The roof fell in on the 101st day." His problems multiplied after police action during a scuffle at a Wallace for President rally last fall. The police action didn't seem to please anyone, Spreen said.

"Ever since, we have just been reacting. I need a chance to act."

His love-in plan would be broken into segments of 40 and 60 days. During the first period, Spreen said, he would make his changes — a better information program, an anti-rumor department, a countercrime clinic and others.

The 40 days would end on March 21.

"That's the day the robins appear and the robbers disappear," Spreen quipped.

"The love-in period will give me a chance to do something and act and give the people a chance to assess the result of those actions."

A message to those Americans who don't happen to think the land of milk and honey is going all sour.

Our country is in a strange mood these days.

Uncertainty surrounds us.

So what can you do about it?

Well, first of all, maybe you should take a long, hard look at this country of ours. Maybe we should look at our healthy side as well as our ills.

And maybe, just maybe, you'll find we're not all that bad.

Sure we have our problems.

And they're not going to go away if you just stand along the sidelines as a spectator.

But they might start to go away if you seriously want to do something for your country.

A U.S. Savings Bond is one way. Let's say you fork over $18.75 of your hard-earned cash. Through a Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or at your bank. That will give you a Bond that's worth $25.00 in just 7 years. If you did that every month you'd stash away quite a nest egg for yourself.

And so would your country.

Your country would be economically stronger to find remedies for some of the headaches we have. While it's preserving something called freedom.

Something that's hard to appreciate. Until you lose it.

Savings Bonds now have a new high interest rate of 4 1/2%. And buying them gives you the privilege of also buying the even higher interest 5% Freedom Shares in combination.

However you look at it, it simply makes a lot of sense to invest in your country. After all, it's the only country you've got.

MANISTIQUE

SIX CHILDREN of Mrs. Marion Haas' kindergarten class enjoyed a valentine cookie and milk party Friday morning in the kindergarten room of the new Lakeside Elementary School. Although the school will not be opened officially until March 3, the kindergartners were able to use their new room on Friday when their regular classroom in the old Lakeside School was used as a precinct during the special school election. Around the table (from left) are Alfred Burns, Terri Price, Kevin Arnold, Mitchell Varnum, Kassandra Jernudd and Leo McNamara. (Daily Press Photo)

Voters Renew 5.5 Mill Tax For Area Schools

Manistique Area School District voters approved a 5.5 mill extension by 157 votes in Friday's special school election. The three-year proposal failed in all townships of the district, but gathered enough support in the city's two precincts to win by a 696 to 539 margin. A total of 1,239 votes were cast, including four spoiled ballots. The election renewed 5.5 mills for school operation which expired last December. In Feb., 1968, after two previous defeats in the summer of 1967, voters approved a 5.5 mill levy for one year by 1,033 to 781. Precinct 1 (Lincoln School) approved Friday's request 148 to 79, while Precinct 2 (Lakeside School) voters balloted 314 to 123 in favor. The township vote shows the following totals: Precinct 3 (Thompson), Yes 34, No 57; Precinct 4 (Hiawatha), Yes 66, No 77; Precinct 5 (Fairview), Yes 43, No 57; Precinct 6 (Doyle), Yes 54, No 65; Precinct 7 (Mueller), Yes 18, No 31; Precinct 8 (Germfask), Yes 19, No 56. The Manistique Area school district presently is operating on a total levy of 16.3 mills, including the 5.5 mills which expired with the Dec., 1968, tax bills. The total also included 6.8 mills allocated and an additional 4.0 mills which will expire with Dec., 1969, bills. The 5.5 mills approved Friday will replace the expiring 5.5 mills on Dec., 1969, tax bills. The millage will raise about $145,000 per year for school operation based on the district's current valuation.

Still a pert and attractive blonde, Miss Singleton is second vice president and operating director of the AGVA under the presidency of Danny Thomas. She played "Blondie," the scatterbrained wife of Dagwood, in more than 40 movies based on the comic strip.

Railroads Propose Venture With Govt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railroad industry today proposed a joint government-industry program to sustain passenger train service and avert what it termed a "public transportation crisis."

The Association of American Railroads said the proposal had been approved unanimously by its board of directors as the only logical solution to the passenger train problem. Historically, passenger train service has been allowed, sometimes encouraged, to disappear.

Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the association, said railroads are "willing and anxious to do what they can" to keep passenger trains in operation.

"But we're forced to operate money-losing trains," he said. "We feel the government should assume the obligation to share in the cost."

Goodfellow asserted, however, that the railroads "still believe as firmly as ever in the free enterprise system."

"But we also believe," he said, "that the public should support public services required of a public industry just as they support services provided by the Post Office and police and fire department."

The railroad plan, he said, would not affect those passenger runs now paying their own way. But those money-losing trains that the government decides must be continued would remain in operation with the government making up any deficits incurred, he said.

The government support would be determined by cost procedures formulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission within the framework of necessary legislation, he said.

Also in the industry plan is a provision for the Department of Transportation to purchase new passenger equipment to rent to railroads to replace worn-out equipment.

The AAR president said the railroads were seeking only a break-even operation and that the industry would still provide the larger part of the costs of running the trains through its own revenues.

The proposal is based, Goodfellow said, on experiences of railroads in working with local and state governments to preserve local train services.

Augenstein's Plan Criticized

LANSING (AP)—A group battling against state aid to non-public schools has criticized a State Board of Education member's proposal to realign Michigan's school finance system and help private and parochial school pupils.

Board member Leroy Augenstein proposed that the state give each school-age child a voucher good for "sufficient funds to assure him or her an adequate education."

The vouchers would be redeemable at any school—public, private or parochial—meeting specified standards.

"The solution of Michigan's public school crisis doesn't include dilly-dallying with a school system that is not the state's responsibility," said Mrs. Harriet Phillips, chairman of Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE).

Augenstein's proposal, she said, would require an extensive state control of private schools and a massive bureaucracy to enforce state regulations.

The plan also would be unconstitutional, she said, since a recent court ruling in Mississippi overturned a voucher system on the basis that it fostered segregation.

Citizens for Educational Freedom, (CEF), a prime force behind the move to grant state funds to nonpublic schools, has applauded the Augenstein proposal, but added that some parts of the suggested system "would not be acceptable."

Dr. John Vandenberg of Grand Rapids, CEF chairman, said the group would "be pleased" to meet with Augenstein to voice its specific objections and suggest alternative conditions.

Macomb Board Cuts Its Salary

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Bowing to public pressure, Macomb County's supervisors Friday trimmed $3,000 from their salaries.

But the supervisors, who voted 13 to 8 to pay themselves $6,000 per year and $35 per meeting to a $9,000 maximum, still face a possible recall movement.

The new pay plan replaces one adopted Jan. 29 which would have paid supervisors about $12,000 per year.

Not including fringe benefits, the 21 supervisors will draw about $190,000 annually from the county, while the old 76-man board earned $98,000 last year on a straight $25 per meeting basis.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

a prayer for everyone

"Tonight, I want you to ask God to bless everyone in the whole wide world.

"On World Day of Prayer, children in every corner of the globe, grown-ups too, will pray that God will make this world a better place.

"Remember last summer at camp when you called out at the edge of that cliff and your echo came answering back? Well, imagine all the people in the world calling out at once in prayer. Imagine how big the echo would be, and how much it would please God to hear it.

"You are lucky because you live here in America, because you have your Church and the right to attend it. So tonight, thank God for things like that, darling, even if you don't entirely understand them. And when you've finished . . . ask Him to bless everyone."
